FRONTIER TRAGEDY

Miss Ellis, aged seventeen, who has been carried off by Indian tribesmen.

GREAT FASHION FAIR

"Dame Fashion" represented by Miss Betty Sprinck, who appears to-day at the wonderful Temple of Fashion at The Daily Mirror Fashion Fair at Holland Park Hall. In this striking dress by Fifinella she will lead the promenade of sixty beautiful mannequins. — (Daily Mirror photograph). Other pictures on pages 12 and 13.

JUDGE RIDES A WINNER AT THE BAR POINT-TO-POINT

Lord Birkenhead (left) backs his fancy.

A Judge and barristers were jockeys on Saturday at the Bar annual point-to-point meeting at Greenford. Judge Farrant won the heavy-weight race on Agar's Plough.

Mrs. Ellis, who has been murdered by tribesmen at Kohat, on the Indian frontier.

Major A. J. Ellis, D.S.O., of the Border Regiment, whose wife has been murdered by natives.

A terrible outrage by Indian tribesmen is reported from Kohat, near the north-west frontier. Mrs. Ellis, wife of a British officer, has been murdered during her husband's absence and her daughter carried off into the hills. It is believed she is held as a hostage.—(Exclusive photographs.)

EVERY WOMAN'S EXHIBITION.

Opening Day of "Daily Mirror" Fashion Fair.

DREAMS COME TRUE.

Glowing Colour Scheme for Mannequin Pageant.

Fairland will be eclipsed when Lady Terrington opens The Daily Mirror Fashion Fair at Holland Park at three o'clock this afternoon.

Wonderful colour schemes have been devised for the daily pageant of sixty mannequins from the Temple of Fashion, exhibiting the rarest and richest creations of Continental and English dressmakers and designers.

The Irish Free State's first exhibit, shown by convent girls attired in the picturesque national costumes, is the largest in the fair.

The organisers of this unique Fashion Fair have achieved their aim of providing everything that every woman wants to see.

HALL OF WONDERS.

Daily Mannequin Parade—Irish Free State's First Exhibit.

When Lady Terrington declares The Daily Mirror Fashion Fair open at three o'clock to-day everything will be in perfect order.

Such loveliness as London has never before achieved has transformed an ordinary hall into a land where dreams come true.

Everything that every woman wants to see and examine closely for herself will be there for her satisfaction—fabrics from far-off lands, the loveliest models from far-famed dress designers, the finest wares of merchants from all over Europe, the most brilliant work of British craftsmen.

Every woman, whether she seeks the satisfaction that lurks in the sight of sheer beauty of form and fabric, or searches for information on how to make the most of a limited dress allowance, will be impressed when she sees the wonders that are housed at the Holland Park Hall to-day.

Sixty mannequins will parade twice daily in every kind of toilette, from gorgeous crystal and diamond-strewn dance frocks and court gowns to the simplest slip-on river frock—each perfect for its especial purpose.

Then there will be lunches, teas and dinners by those perfect caterers, Buzard, in a setting that combines the beauty of the Italy of to-day with the gorgeousness of the Italy of the Renaissance.

IDEA ON EVERY STALL.

The deep blue of the balcony, the bizarre and decorative frieze, the multi-coloured minarets and cupolas, and the golden gateway to the golden temple have inspired every exhibitor to strenuous efforts to be worthy of such an environment.

The largest exhibit of all is also most interesting, since it is the first shown by the Irish Free State.

M. Douillet himself has brought models and mannequins from Paris, and at the exhibit of Paul Carle, Lady Olga Egerton, Princess Lobanoff-Rastofski and Lady Cheetham will be in charge.

Most important of all, every stall will have an idea on it—probably just the one you, consciously or unconsciously, are seeking—ideas from the old world and ideas from the new world in process of construction, ideas of practical utility and ideas on ornamentation of yourself and your home.

To-morrow the French Ambassador's wife, the Comtesse de Saint-Aulaire, will open the Fair at 3.

FEAST OF COLOUR.

Wonderful Lighting Effects from Temple of Fashion Pageant.

Nothing like the lighting effects for the Fashion Parade has ever previously been attempted in the history of the fair.

Neither the Court of Cleopatra, nor Babylon at its zenith, ever provided such a feast of harmonious, ever-changing colours.

The body of the hall, with its frieze of prehistoric red figures on a black and white background, will be drenched in pale moonlight.

Then, amid the stalls with their multi-coloured cupolas, rises the Temple of Fashion, a beautiful structure of Italian design.

A fanfare of trumpets signals the beginning of the pageant of mannequins, in all their marvellous creations. The golden gowns swing open, and Dame Fashion, in a beautiful black and white dress, strides down the steps.

The background for this example of the dress-makers' art will be a vivid red fading gradually into purple, with a distant vista beyond the gates of intense blue, shot with violet and green, but every movement of the mannequin herself will be followed by a pure white light.

The result is that the full effect of every one of the marvellous dress creations is much better appreciated.

DOG'S LEAP FATAL.

Car Overturns When Steering Wheel Is Struck.

MISTRESS KILLED.

Nursed by its mistress in a motor-car, a pet dog was responsible for a fatal accident in Cheshire on Saturday.

The car was being driven by Mr. T. Drake, a works manager, of Altrincham, who had as a passenger Miss Edwards, a middle-aged woman, with whom he lodged.

When near Lower Peover, the dog, which Miss Edwards was nursing, suddenly jumped from her lap towards Mr. Drake.

In so doing it struck the steering wheel. This caused the car to swerve and run on a grass mound at the roadside and overturn.

Miss Edwards was picked up unconscious and died in hospital. Mr. Drake escaped injury. The car was wrecked.

SLIPPED TO DEATH.

Woman's Frantic Effort to Save Her Husband from Drowning.

A woman's dramatic, but unavailing effort to save her husband from falling into the flooded river thirty feet below was seen by hundreds of people on Trent Bridge, Burton-on-Trent.

Among the crowd leaving a circus on Saturday evening were a railway guard, named Charles Butler, and his wife.

When over the deepest part of the flooded river, Mr. Butler suddenly rolled over the parapet of the bridge.

Mrs. Butler clung desperately to her husband's arm, and Mr. Hues, a chemist, came to her aid, but they could only hold Mr. Butler for a few seconds, and he fell into the swollen river and was drifted swiftly away, hastily-launched boats failing to save him.

Mrs. Butler collapsed and was taken home in an ambulance. Mr. Butler is stated to have been suffering from neurasthenia and depression.

"GAME OF LIFE."

Prison for Schoolboy Who Said He Meant to Enjoy It.

Eric Wyndham Wright, a seventeen-year-old Crofton schoolboy, was alleged at Canterbury on Saturday to have—

Abandoned from Redhill Farm School on stolen bicycle.

Stolen £10 at Crofton.

Stolen a suit at Margate.

Stolen 100 francs at Boulogne.

Stolen £200 securities at Herne Bay.

He was arrested at Dover. The Rev. McAuley, superintendent of the reformatory, said Wright, a clever and well-educated boy, was a skilled forger. While at Boulogne he wrote to the school: "I know what it means if I am caught; but it's the game of life, and I mean to enjoy it."

Wright, who admitted everything, was sentenced to three months' hard labour.

£1,000,000 DOCK FIRE.

6,000 Tons of Tobacco Destroyed—Week's Watch on Ruins.

As the result of a fire at the Victoria Docks on Saturday, when nearly 6,000 tons of tobacco, valued at over £1,000,000, were destroyed, a high wall have to be kept for at least a week in case the smoking ruins blaze up again.

Most of the stock lost belonged to the Imperial Tobacco Co., and, in addition, an official stated, it will probably cost £50,000 to restore the damaged building.

Soon after the blaze was discovered the flames had the whole building in their grip, despite the united efforts of dock firemen, the London County Council Brigade and policemen, several of whom were rendered unconscious by the fumes.

DRAMA AT AUDIT.

Man Found Gassed at Town Hall in Locked Office.

On a charge of attempted suicide at Llan-gollen Town Hall, Frank Jones, thirty-two, rate collector, was on Saturday sent for trial.

The Government auditor, it was stated, was conducting the annual audit in the council chambers, when groans were heard in an adjoining office, the doors of which were locked.

Police, who forced an entry, found Jones lying badly gassed, the fumes issuing from open taps in the gas stove.

For the defence, it was stated that Jones attempted to open the window and fell, becoming unconscious from the fumes.

HARROW BOY'S "HOWLER."

"Rorke's Drift is one of the fences in the Grand National," wrote a Harrow boy whose "howler" is printed with others in the school magazine.

G.O.M. OF FOOTBALL.

Mr. Crump Dies at Hotel After Seeing International.

ARDOUR FOR GAME AT 83

Mr. Charles Crump, senior vice-president of the Football Association, had a seizure at the North British Hotel, Edinburgh, yesterday morning and died before a doctor arrived. He was in his eighty-third year.

After seeing the international match between Scotland and England at Hampden Park, Glasgow, on Saturday, Mr. Crump returned with the Football Association party to Edinburgh, and Mr. John Lewis (vice-president), Mr. H. J. Hirst and Mr. Horace Porter (members of the council) and Mr. F. J. Wall (secretary), of the Football Association, were present when their old colleague passed away.

When his playing days were over, Mr. Crump was elected president of the Birmingham F.A., an office which he always retained, and joined the Football Association Committee in 1883.

He was made a vice-president in 1886, and always took a prominent part in the legislative side of the game.

Strongly opposed to professionalism, he argued that "its introduction will be the ruin of the game," but when the change became inevitable, Mr. Crump was one of the committee to alter the rules.

Despite his advanced years, Mr. Crump retained his energy unimpaired, and his love for the game was so keen that he was the most vocal advocate at meetings and matches.

He seemed as active as ever on Saturday, and his sudden end will come as a great shock to football officials in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, as well as on the Continent, for he was one of the most familiar figures at all the chief centres of the game.

MACHINE CLERKS.

Automatic Ticket Sellers for Rush Hours on Underground.

Automatic booking-offices will soon be a feature on London underground stations.

Passengers will be able to get all prices of tickets during rush hours at a considerable saving of time.

The new machines are electrically operated, and money is returned if the machine is out of order or the stock of tickets exhausted. A bell will ring in the main booking-office when the tickets run out.

A trial office at Victoria Station proved successful last week, no fewer than 50,000 tickets being delivered.

K.C.'S FUNERAL BAN.

Sir Thomas Hewitt's Will Request for No "Fashion" Display.

I emphatically direct that my funeral shall be of an unostentatious kind, and I appeal to those surviving me not (as often happens) to allow reverence and obedience to these my express wishes to give place to pride or mere complaisance with fashion.

This was a sentence in the will of Sir Thomas Hewitt, K.C., of Lynton (North Devon) and Queen's Gate, S.W., who left £101,581.

"To buy a horse or some other token of good-will," he bequeathed £250 to his son-in-law, Mr. D. W. J. Cowie.

'NIGHT OF TEMPTATION.'

Boisterous Applause and Chorus of Hisses for Lyceum Melodrama.

That melodrama appeals as strongly as ever to popular imagination was evidenced by the scenes which accompanied the first performance on Saturday of "A Night of Temptation" at the Lyceum Theatre.

The house was packed in every part and there was boisterous applause for the noble sentiments expressed by the hero and heroine, time-honoured hisses for the villain and "curtains" by the dozen.

In some mythical Balkan State a certain Queen Catherine (admirably played by Miss Violet Farebrother), angred at being chided by the virtuous Princess Viola that the women at Court were somewhat lax in their morals, orders her to be handed over to the tender mercies of Paul Azario, a young officer.

To rule on the scene, the Queen, who wears really regal gowns, passes sentence of death on Azario if he fails to carry out her instructions. Incidentally, Azario had unwittingly killed the princess's brother, a duel, and the princess, on her part, had sworn a vendetta. Azario, as a true hero, loved the princess, and swore that the princess's honour would be safe in his keeping.

Virtue wins, and everything ends happily.

RESCUE FROM SMUGGLERS' CAVE.

Attempting to ascend Ramsgate cliffs to investigate a reputed smugglers' cave, Mr. F. H. Newover, twenty, of Maidstone, got into difficulties halfway up and had to be rescued by a rope lowered from the top of the cliff by Cliff Inspector Griggs and Coastguard Thomas Lenard.

ROMANCE OF AN HEIRESS.

Miss McCormick Weds Former Riding Master.

BRIDEGROOM AT 45.

Granddaughter of Man of Millions—In Love at Twelve.

A romance which began six years ago has culminated in the marriage in London of Miss Mathilde McCormick, the eighteen-year-old daughter of H. F. McCormick, the American millionaire, and the granddaughter of J. D. Rockefeller, the multi-millionaire, to Mr. Max Oser, her former Swiss riding master.

The wedding took place at Lewisham Register Office on Thursday, and there were only two witnesses of the ceremony.

The age of the bridegroom, a small, military-looking man, was given as forty-five.

The bride was described as a spinster of independent means, and gave her father's name as Harold Fowler McCormick and his occupation as agricultural manufacturer.

BRIDEGROOM'S SECRET.

Even Landlady Did Not Know He Was Marrying Into Millions.

Miss McCormick fell in love with her handsome riding-master when she was only twelve and he was in his fortieth year.

Recently Miss McCormick, who arrived here from France, and the end of last year, went to live at Old Court-mansions, Kensington.

Mr. Oser has been staying at Ardgowan-road, Hither Green, S.E., but kept his identity so secret that even his landlady did not know he was about to marry.

Miss McCormick produced at the register office the necessary consent in writing to the marriage from both parents. After the ceremony the pair left for Scotland.

So far there has been no financial settlement in connection with the marriage, although the bride's status is associated with enormous wealth.

Miss Mathilde McCormick's secret marriage adds another interesting chapter to the history of a family as famed for its eccentricities as for its wealth.

FIGHT FOR HER LOVE.

The following is the record of the "affairs" of the McCormick family—

Harold McCormick, head of the family, divorced his wife Edith (a daughter of John D. Rockefeller, the oil king), whom he married after she had divorced her husband, Alexander Smith Cochrane, another multi-millionaire.

Mathilde McCormick, his daughter, at the age of seventeen announced her engagement to the middle-aged Swiss riding master, Max Oser, whom she has now married. The father and grandfather gave their consent, but the wife at once filed a suit asking the father to be deprived of his guardianship of Mathilde, as she opposed the match.

Mathilde announced that she would fight for her love against all opposition, and the Illinois Courts dismissed the mother's application.

Alistair McCormick, a young millionaire cousin of Harold McCormick, attracted notice by being kept waiting at the altar. Thrice his fiancée, Miss Mary Landon Baker, another inheritor of millions, failed to keep her appointment at the church.

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, mother of Mathilde, startled Paris two months ago by claiming to be the wife of Tutankh Amen in an earlier incarnation.

OTHER NEWS IN BRIEF.

Weather Forecast.—Fair, but unsettled; thunder showers. Lighting-up time to-day, 7.55 p.m. 300 shots were fired in a Labour disturbance at Barcelona, and ten persons were injured.

BUDGET PLANS OF CHANCELLOR REVEALED TO-DAY

Sixpence Off Income Tax and Penny a Pint Less for Beer—No Cheaper Sugar.

CORPORATION PROFITS DUTY DOWN BY HALF

Rating Relief to Aid Agriculture—Entertainment and Postal Charges May Be Lightened.

Every taxpayer in the land is looking to-day to the Commons, where Mr. Stanley Baldwin will reveal his Budget secrets.

There is likely to be only 6d. off income tax and a penny a pint off beer, to become operative to-morrow; reduction of the Corporation Profits Duty by half and rating relief for agriculture.

Small postal concessions may be accompanied by slight adjustments of the taxes on tobacco and entertainments, but nothing will come off sugar, owing to the shortage and "rings" which would prevent any remission reaching the public.

Taxation of betting—favoured by a majority of Ministers as likely to yield £20,000,000 or £30,000,000 a year—will be referred to a Committee of Inquiry.

SHELVING BETTING TAX TILL INQUIRY IS MADE.

Beer To Be Sold at Reduced Price To-morrow.

A SLIGHT HOPE FOR SMOKERS.

By Our Lobby Correspondent.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin will present his first Budget to the House of Commons to-day.

It is anticipated that the Chancellor will propose these remissions of taxation:—

Income Tax.—Sixpence off.

Beer.—Reduction to enable one penny to be taken off the pint, brewers contributing a share of the cost. Lower price to take effect to-morrow.

Corporation Profits.—Fifty per cent. reduction.

Postal.—Small concessions.

Agriculture.—Relief in respect of rates and Schedule A.

It was rumoured during the week-end that there may be some readjustments of the tobacco and the entertainments taxes. If they are made, however, they will be of a trifling character.

BETTING TAX INQUIRY.

A Select Committee will be set up to investigate a scheme for the taxation of betting.

The principle of the impost is approved by a majority of the Cabinet, and those who advocate it estimate that a 10 per cent. duty on each transaction would yield anything from £20,000,000 to £30,000,000 a year.

The reluctance of the Government to proceed at once with the imposition of the tax is due to the desire first to be supported by the findings of a non-Ministerial body, since there is certain to be considerable opposition, not merely in the Commons, but also from religious bodies in the country.

It was generally expected up till the end of last week that the Chancellor would reduce the sugar duty, but the prevailing shortage of supplies and the existence of "rings" have, it is reported, convinced him that such small remission as he could afford would not be passed on to the consumer.

It is, therefore, understood that he will not adjust the existing impost.

The rise in the income tax from 1914 onwards is shown in the following table:—

|---------|---|
| 1914-15 | 1 |
| 1915-16 | 1 |
| 1916-17 | 3 |
| 1917-18 | 5 |
| 1918-19 | 6 |
| 1919-20 | 6 |
| 1920-21 | 6 |
| 1921-22 | 5 |

ORDER OF TO-DAY'S DEBATE.

The Chancellor will open his statement about 4 p.m. and speak for about an hour and a half. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald will follow, and Mr. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George, the leaders of the two Liberal sections, will also speak.

There are now five former Chancellors in the Commons—Mr. Asquith, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Bonar Law, Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Robert Horne—and all, with the possible exception of Mr. Chamberlain, will be in attendance to-day. There is certain to be a full attendance of M.P.s. All tickets for the public galleries were allotted several days ago.

MAN FOUND WOUNDED.

As the sequel to William Ernest Chapman (thirty-eight), a window-cleaner, being found on Saturday night lying in a passage at Lewis Buildings, Liverpool-road, Islington, with a wound in the throat, his wife, Gertrude Rose Chapman, will be charged at Clerkenwell Police Court. Chapman is expected to recover.

FRENCH PREMIER RENEWS SOLEMN OATH TO DEAD.

Ruhr Discoveries Show That Germany Could Pay.

"DUTY TO WIN THE PEACE."

We lived four years with the sole thought of winning the war. It is our duty to-day to win the peace.

We swore to our dead that we would not allow to be lost a victory so dearly paid for, and here before this monument, raised to their memory, we renew once more this solemn oath.

M. Poincaré made these impressive declarations in a firm defence of the French Ruhr policy at Dunkirk yesterday, when (says Reuter) he unveiled a monument to Dunkirk war heroes.

"It is we," continued the French Premier, "whom the war has hit hardest. It was we who lost the greatest number of men and suffered the greatest material losses. It was our industry, our mines and our countryside that were the most terribly ravaged."

In the Ruhr France had made three discoveries. The first was that Germany could have delivered the coal she owed, since she was now doing without the Ruhr coal; second, she could have paid in foreign currency, since she was now using it to buy goods abroad; and the third was that the Schutzpolizei were a military organisation in disguise.

France would firmly hold the guarantees she had seized, said M. Poincaré.

The Decisive Week.—"This will be the decisive week," says George Bernhardt, writing in the Vossische Zeitung. He adds that Herr Rosenberg—German Foreign Minister—is expected to put forward definite proposals which may possibly lead to a reparations agreement.—Central News.

"FRANCE KNOWS HER MIND."

Why British and U.S. Opinion Favors Ruhr Action—M. Loucheur's Visit.

M. Poincaré, says the Exchange, alluded to the visit of Mr. Loucheur to London.

He declared that the change of opinion in favour of France in the United States and throughout the British Empire, and of which M. Loucheur had had proof recently, was largely due to the fact that France knew what she wanted, and that, in company with Belgium, she had her hands, as Mr. Bonar Law had justly described it, "on Germany's jugular vein." They had no intention, however, of strangling anybody.

Conversations between the French and Belgian Premiers, which terminated in Paris on Saturday, will be resumed in a fortnight's time at Brussels, states the Central News.

M. Magniot yesterday said France would leave the Ruhr when Germany yielded and paid what she owed.—Exchange.

LABOUR M.P.s ON WAR GRAVES

Tribute to Reverence and Loving Care of Ex-Service Men Staff.

Reporting on a visit to war cemeteries in France and Belgium, five British Labour M.P.s state:—"We were struck by the spirit of reverence and loving care which characterises all shades of the Imperial War Graves Commission's staff whom we met, ninety-eight per cent. of whom are ex-Service men."

"We never previously realised what it really meant to see every rank of soldier, from general to private, lying side by side under the same simple headstones."

DANCED INTO MADNESS BY NON-STOP PARTNER.

Feverish Efforts to Beat Fox-Trotting Record.

HOW THEY DO IT IN TEXAS.

Hundreds of exhausted couples are staggering across ballroom floors in many American cities in an attempt, says Reuter, to make a new-world's record for continuous dancing. A Baltimore woman danced her partner into a state of temporary insanity after forty-three hours and he was taken to a hospital.

Seven couples have been dancing for over forty-five hours in Houston, Texas.

When the police tried to stop the performance the spectators threatened to riot, and the dancers were allowed to continue. Several men collapsed in the evening.

One man with a passion for novelty lathered and shaved himself while fox-trotting.

In Cleveland a dancing record of fifty-two hours and eleven minutes established by a woman, who incidentally has not yet recovered from the feat, has started a similar competition in nearly every dance hall and numerous couples have been whirling since Saturday morning in a fight against exhaustion.

Police in New York and elsewhere are considering means of curbing the mania.

RAND MINERS ENTOMBED.

Natives Buried by Heavy Fall of Rock—Three Dead.

JOHANNESBURG, Sunday.

Between ten and twenty natives are entombed on the Randfontein Estates as a result of a heavy fall of rock.

Unceasing efforts are being made at rescue, and it is hoped to recover the rest of the men alive, three being already dead.

No European is among the injured.—Exchange.

HELP FOR FARMERS HINT.

Minister Foreshadows Measure of "Subsidy or Protection."

"Whether it is called subsidy or Protection, the problem of whether it is possible to keep land under cultivation without some form of direct State assistance must, sooner or later, be faced."

Thus Mr. Ormsby Gore (Under-Secretary for the Colonies), in a speech at Stafford.

The appalling condition of the agricultural industry, he added, might compel the Government to put frankly and fearlessly before the urban population the necessity of placing their hands in their pockets, directly or indirectly, in order to maintain the land under the plough.

CIGARETTE AS SIGNAL.

How Man Adrift for Twenty-Four Hours Tried to Call Help.

Adrift at sea for twenty-four hours in a small open boat, George Drake, a Southport man, feverishly waved a flashlight and a lighted cigarette in the hope that they might be seen by a passing steamer.

He had been driven out to sea by wind and tide.

He saw vessels during the night, but none of them noticed his plight.

Once his boat capsized in a heavy sea, but it righted itself again. Eventually he was picked up by a steamer and landed at Fleetwood.

HULL TRADESMAN FOUND SHOT.

Mr. Frank Walton Harland, of the firm of Messrs. W. Harland and Company, one of the leading firms of drapers and outfitters in Hull, was found dead in the drapery premises last night. There was a gunshot wound in his head. Earlier in the day he had been out golfing.

The Dowager Countess of Carnarvon, accompanied by Dr. Marcus Johnson, has left Cairo, says Reuter, for Port Said with the body of the late Earl.

DAUGHTER OF MAJOR ABDUCTED BY AFRIDIS.

Mother Found Murdered in Bungalow.

SILENT NIGHT RAID.

Crime Thought To Be One of Revenge—Girl as Hostage.

A great shock has been caused in India by the murder at Kohat of Mrs. Ellis, wife of Major Ellis, of the Border Regiment, and the abduction of their seventeen-year-old daughter, says Reuter's Peshawar correspondent.

Every effort of the military and civil authorities is concentrated on rescuing Miss Ellis and exacting full retribution for the crime.

Ruffians, presumably from across the border, only two miles away, entered the bungalow occupied by Mrs. and Miss Ellis and murdered Mrs. Ellis with a dagger and carried off her daughter.

Despite the fact that a military guard was posted on the next bungalow of the General Officer Commanding Kohat, and that an officer was sleeping in Mrs. Ellis's spare room as a precautionary measure in the absence of her husband, the crime was committed, and the offenders escaped over the brigade parade ground.

COLONEL WHO WAS SHOT.

Information is scanty, but suspicion points to a connection with the Foulkes murder case in 1920.

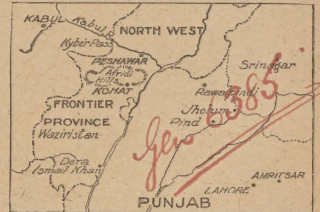

In that year Colonel T. H. Foulkes, Assistant Director of Medical Services at Kohat, was shot dead in his bungalow, and Mrs. Foulkes soon succumbed to her wounds.

Their little girl, obeying her mother's instructions, hid under her bed.

Afterwards, when the house had been looted, she discovered her father's dead body, and eventually made her way to the next bungalow.

Proofs of complicity in that offence of members of the Bostikel section of the Afridis were found, says Reuter, in a recent counter-raid for the recovery of police rifles.

The present theory is that desperation at these disclosures, coupled with fear of penalties and revenge for the raid and the searching of their houses, led to the committing of the outrage.

Map showing Kohat, the scene of the tragedy.

with the object of holding an English woman captive as hostage for those of the tribe who had been arrested.

Mrs. Ellis was a native of Tavistock and niece of the former Judge Benson, of India.

Major Ellis is the eldest son of Mr. J. H. Ellis, former town clerk of Plymouth.

A cablegram received in Plymouth yesterday, signed "Harrison," reads: "Mrs. Ellis met death from tribesmen; Molly abducted."

Mrs. Molly Ellis recently finished her education at Plymouth and proceeded to India last July with her parents.

The Afridis, who are suspected of the crime, are the most powerful and fiercest of all the Pathan tribes and have the virtues and vices—among which are reckoned ferocity, craft and treachery—in an enhanced degree.

TIDAL WAVE DISASTER.

400 Missing Fishermen Caught in Korean Coast Storm.

TOKIO, Sunday. The Navy Department has received a report from Korea that 400 fishermen and others are missing as the result of a tidal wave and storm on the east coast of Korea.

The number of lives lost is uncertain, but is believed to be large.—Reuter.

BUDGET ILLUSIONS.

TO-DAY'S Budget will necessarily disappoint some people. It is the usual experience.

Hopes are always buoyed up beyond reasonable expectation. Then follows disillusionment.

We can well believe that the Government have considered the financial position of the country and all possible reductions in taxation with the utmost earnestness. They have been exhorted by their particular friends in the Press to seek prestige by a "popular Budget." All things considered, this is not very good advice.

For these are days of great debt and huge expenditure.

A valiant effort to be popular, no doubt, animates most Chancellors of the Exchequer. They are human, and they have votes—in the House of Commons and in the country—to preserve.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin has a particularly difficult task. He is supposed to have a substantial "surplus" with which to play about. Of course he has nothing of the kind.

And all these things cannot be achieved at one stroke yet. We hope that Mr. Baldwin will go as far along the path of reduced taxation as is possible. We want him to watch with unceasing vigilance—and a cold, critical and questioning eye—the gigantic expenditure upon bureaucratic organisation. We want him to hack away at overstaffing and overworking, to lop off all excrescences.

As to new sources of revenue, to counterbalance concessions long overdue, we have not much hope that the betting tax will "go through" without the preliminaries of a Select Committee and much investigation.

The official mind in Whitehall, like the military mind in war, wants every invention to become obvious and old before it takes it up—whether "it" happens to be tanks or taxes. And yet probably the Chancellor's best chance here would be to impose the tax in the first fine careless rapture.

OUR FASHION FAIR.

THE Fashion Fair organised by The Daily Mirror (which opens to-day) at the Holland Park Hall is not only a wonderful dress display, but also an exhibition of "new ideas" about all those accessories for decoration that appeal to the heart of woman.

It provides a wonderful opportunity for the matching of dress and "furnishing"; of the individual and the environment.

The Spring is the season for these visions; for in the Spring one is impelled by a very natural impulse towards renovation, both of one's person and one's surroundings.

The renovation, however, need not be complete.

All the modest housewife needs is a suggestion here or there; a hint which she can utilise; and, in general, a reminder that life can be made "brighter" by the beauty of visible surroundings. . . . In any case there will be ideas even for modest purses at the Fashion Fair.

And, as she strolls through the hall, the modern woman will judge, no doubt, that she is fortunate to live at a time when such facilities are put in her way.

WILD MEN IN PARLIAMENT!

THE disgraceful scene in the House last week effectively disposes of the query: "Can Labour govern?"

The Labour Party merely cuts its own throat with such displays, and its name becomes synonymous with Belshesvim.

The public are frightened by the idea of a Labour Government, and until the wild men of Westminster calm down they will make no impression in the House or with the man in the street.

EX-LABOUR.

A TAX ON BETTING.

MANY people will fail to see why Mr. Baldwin should not be bold for once and grasp this betting nettle firmly. I fancy what used to

TYPISTS' ERRORS.

HAVE any of your readers noticed how very badly modern typists work?

It appears to me that they sacrifice correctness to the craze for speed. Seldom indeed do I receive or sign a letter without having to make several corrections.

Also, shorthand writers appear to have a mania for taking down words and phrases the "dictator" never uses.

A BUSINESS MAN.

DOLLS' HOUSES.

NO doubt many of us would be glad to get any sort of house to live in nowadays—even a Dolls' House.

But it is certainly a strange comment on war promises that in the "land fit for heroes to

In any case, the betting tax will have to come some day. Why not now, when we most need it?

IS IT WRONG?

CERTAINLY it is foolish to risk money one cannot afford to lose. But even in investment of one's savings one continually risks something. Life is risk.

I cannot help thinking, therefore, that there is a good deal of hypocrisy in the outcry against "sanctioning gambling."

WEEK-END COTTAGES.

FOR some of us, a room or a tiny house near London are not luxuries, but necessities.

I lived an active and open-air life during the war. I found it very hard to settle down to close rooms and desk work.

Fortunately my job allows me time to get out of London at night, and, by rising early, I am able to enjoy the fresh air and gardening that I love, before going to work. If I had not this resource I should be always in bad health and spirits.

AMATEUR GARDENER.

SUSPICION.

ONE thing can be said about the habit of trusting other people. It may be foolish. It may often lead one into trouble. But at least one is better liked if one is trusted than if one is suspicious.

Suspicious people are never popular.

live in," heroes are going in many cases to live in boxes of so many square feet!

A HOUSELESS EX-SERVICE MAN.

NEIGHBOURS IN THE AUDIENCE.

WHY do so many people make themselves nuisances to their neighbours in the theatre?

The other night, watching a musical play, I sat next a man who hummed all the tunes as they were being played. He explained that he knew them by heart. Perhaps. But I didn't. And I wanted to hear them!

EXASPERATED.

A GAME OF BRIDGE.

SURELY those who complain that they are invited to play bridge for high stakes do not show much moral courage!

It is easy to reply: "Thanks, I never play cards for money!"

APRIL 15—Now is a suitable time to plant varieties of the clematis. This is, perhaps, our most brilliant climber, and for freedom of bloom and rich colouring it is indispensable. The clematis must be given rich deep soil. It possible plant the roots in a position where the lower part of the stems is shaded from hot sunshine.

Montana is a fine strong-growing species, and will quickly cover a wide space. It should be remembered that the Jackmanni and lanuginosa varieties bloom from July to October, and the patens, viticella and florida sections during June and July.

THE GREAT ART OF LOOKING ONE'S BEST.

FASHION IDEALS OF TO-DAY AND YESTERDAY.

By JANET MORGAN.

THE revelation of many beauty "secrets" in dress and adornment at The Daily Mirror Fashion Fair this week reminds us of the heroic pains which woman has always been ready to take in the cause of beauty.

Sacrifice is the highest test of true enthusiasm. It sweeps away pretences and shows what people genuinely value. Judged by its standard, the quest of beauty is seen to be one of the great causes which are a lasting inspiration to humanity.

The desire to increase and keep beauty has always been stronger with women than the desire for wealth.

The fact that this enthusiasm has so often been exploited by quacks only proves its greatness. It is only under the influence of great fundamental passions—like love, or the desire for security in the future, to take other instances—that people are ready to listen to anyone who will prophesy smooth things.

This ruling passion has always been the same. The Roman Empress Poppaea never moved without her train of seventy she-asses, which provided a daily milk-bath for her complexion, and Roman ladies cheerfully made themselves ill by drinking vinegar when it was fashionable to be pale.

In the old days in England, however, women usually made comparatively little attempt to defy Time.

HOW TO LOOK ONE'S BEST.

They are no longer prepared for this surrender. The struggle to retain youth has become far more intense, and it is every woman's aim to die fighting to the end. But nowadays she need not die of her efforts to look her best.

Some of the most monstrous rituals with which Beauty used to be worshipped, such as wasp-waists and vast hooped skirts, have passed away; and no doubt the conditions of modern life and our increased knowledge about health would prevent their return. Consequently, perhaps, the young girl starts, on the average, with a better equipment than her great-grandmother's.

We no longer affect the faded-lily type. The Burne-Jones maiden was, in her way, delightful. But she is out of date. You no longer see her in offices and on the lawn tennis courts. Lawn tennis is nowadays much too strenuous for the anemic. A more natural type of loveliness can afford to ignore artificial tortures for self-improvement.

It cannot afford, however, to neglect the poetry of dress, of colour, of harmony in adornment. A Fashion Fair is still an invaluable help in the art of making the best of oneself.

Let us then, then, not compare the mud-baths or milk-baths, the frigid luxuries of Rome. Let us not return to the mistaken heroism of vinegar and tight-lacing. But let us not suppose that anyone—even a great beauty—can afford to ignore good taste in dress.

Too long have Englishwomen been reproached by observant foreigners of dressing "just anyhow." There is nothing wrong in the determination to look one's best. Woman's heroic desire not to be ugly may nowadays be made effective with no harm to themselves, as you may see if you visit the Holland Park Hall this week.

The Wise Woman cleans her face with Skin Food, and a lovely transparent "baby" skin is the result.

TO-DAY'S GOSSIP

News and Views About Men, Women and Affairs in General

Lady Terrington.

Lady Terrington, who will open The Daily Mirror Fashion Fair this afternoon at three o'clock, spent the week-end out of London. She has had a great deal of experience in the making of public speeches, as she was one of the women candidates for election last November. Her voice is very clear and resonant, and she is always quite free from self-consciousness.

Really International.

During the week visitors to The Daily Mirror Fashion Fair will hear the Comtesse de St. Aulaire, Lady Curzon of Kedleston, Mme. Mastny, the clever wife of the Czecho-Slovakian Minister, and Miss Marie Tempest, all of whom have promised to open the Fair on different days.

Foreign Servants.

I hope the Committee of Women who are trying to solve the servant problem will give their consideration to the question of importing domestic workers from the countries from which they are willing to emigrate for the sake of the higher wages to be earned here. The Dutch have solved their difficulties by importing German servants; and many Scandinavian servants would willingly come.

Liked in the Provinces.

"Trespases," which is being produced at the Ambassadors Theatre to-night, has already had a run in the provinces, and has been favourably received. The production is in the hands of Reginald Denham, our youngest producer, and in private life the husband of that charming actress Moyna McGill. The author is Mr. Edward Percy, a City merchant, who wrote "If Four Walls Told."

Mr. Edward Percy.

in the atmosphere of "The City"; and dealing with business men and matters.

A Taxi Complaint.

There seem to be scores of taxicabs about when they are not required, but it is a very different matter when the theatre crowds are about. The other night I waited nearly half an hour before a cab could be obtained, and this at a theatre in the West End. Even when a cab condescends to be hired the driver never wants to take you anywhere except within half a mile of his own home.

Schoolboys and Chess.

Chess tournaments and inter-school chess matches for boys are becoming fashionable; but I do not think that wise schoolmasters will encourage them. The game is an absorbing one, and far more likely than any kind of athletic sport to distract young minds from serious studies. At both Oxford and Cambridge many men have missed prizes, otherwise within their reach, by their excessive devotion to it.

Wireless Concerts on the River.

The little river steamers which make the trip through Paris are to provide a new attraction for the passengers this summer, writes my Paris correspondent, in the hope of fighting the competition of the railways and tramways. Wireless receiving sets are being installed, and a pleasant trip will be made pleasanter with a wireless concert. An experiment was made the other day, and the passengers were quite charmed with the innovation.

One's Self on the Stage.

M. Arthur Mayer, the veteran editor of the Gaulois and litterateur, who, for half a century, has been one of the leading figures in Paris, had a novel experience, I am told, at the first performance of the new Paris musical comedy "Ciboulette." The scene is laid in 1867, and at a party a number of celebrities are introduced—Alexandre Dumas the son, Edmond de Goncourt and M. Arthur Mayer, bald and with side whiskers. But M. Mayer says that he was nothing like this stage portrait in those days, when he was only twenty-two, and he protests vehemently that he was well endowed with hair.

A Lady in Waiting.

The names of several ladies are under consideration for the post of Lady-in-Waiting to the future Duchess of York. All of them are elderly and with long experience of Court life in England and other countries. This is particularly necessary, as the Duke of York and his wife will represent the King at a great many foreign functions.

A Precedent.

This is one of the reasons why the King will exercise his special prerogative and raise Lady Elizabeth's rank. The only time he has done so before—was in the case of Countess Zia Werhner, daughter morganatically of the Grand Duke Michael of Russia. On her marriage was given the rank of an earl's daughter.

For Sports Enthusiasts.

The Duke of Portland is interested in an exhibition being arranged in the early autumn at the Alpine Galleries for winter sports enthusiasts. Already numbers of entries for an amateur photographic competition in this connection have been received by Mrs. Aubrey Le Blond, the well-known Alpine expert, who is now centring all her interests in the Rheims Cathedral Fund, which will benefit by the exhibition.

Talking Pictures.

Though there is nothing new in the idea of transmitting speech by light—forty years ago it was in being, so to speak—we are getting busy on it now. A prime reason is, I understand, the desire to develop the discovery so that we may have talking pictures.

For Glasgow Cathedral.

As the Rev. Dr. Fleming, of London, has declined the pastorate of Glasgow Cathedral, I hear it is probable that the Rev. Dr. Lauchlan MacLellan Watt, a popular Edinburgh preacher, will receive the appointment. Dr. Watt preached before the King and Queen at Crathie last autumn, and was a guest at Balmoral. In 1908 he accompanied the King of Denmark in a tour in Iceland.

Sir George Hunter, who celebrated his golden wedding yesterday by making a handsome gift to a child-dread sanatorium.

Miss Mary Power, of The West House, Thirsk, whose engagement to Mr. John Moubray, of the Guards, is announced.

SUMMER HOLIDAYS.

A Lady-in-Waiting—Evening Party Plans—A Taxi Complaint.

ABOUT THIS TIME of the year those who are obliged to work for the most part of it begin to meditate upon the prospects and possibilities of summer holidays. The problems "Where shall I go?" and "When shall I go?" are two questions which we ask ourselves, but the query "How much will it cost?" is even more important. It is unlikely that to-day's Budget will have any effect on the high cost of holidays.

Important Young Person.

The young Countess of Seafeld and her mother, Dowager Lady Seafeld, are making a stay of several weeks at Castle Grant, Morayshire, one of the two great family homes. To-morrow Lady Seafeld will celebrate her seventeenth birthday, and she is expected to be one of next season's debutantes. When she does come out she should be the most important debutante of the year as a Countess in her own right.

Another Irish "Sweep."

I hear that Mr. Dick Duggan, the famous organiser of the Irish sweepsstakes, is organising another "sweep" in connection with the Derby, which will be run on June 6. The first prize is £10,000, the second £5,000 and the third £2,500. The total amount to be divided amongst prizewinners is £20,000.

Reparation Loan.

I find little support in serious quarters—least of all in serious quarters in France—for the expectation that the German reparations question will be settled by means of a loan. French papers which reflect the views of the Government insist that no one, either in Germany or elsewhere, has sufficient confidence in German credit to be willing to lend any appreciable sum.

America and British Professors.

A week ago Professor Sir Harold Stiles, of Edinburgh University, left to occupy temporarily the place of Professor Cushing at Harvard University. Now I hear that Professor Alexander Souter, Regius Professor of Humanity at Aberdeen University, has been invited by the Faculty of Princeton Theological Seminary to deliver a course of lectures in the next academic session.

Strangers in the Commons.

The fortitude of that stranger who remained in the public gallery throughout the twenty-one hours the members were sitting is worthy of all admiration. But other "strangers" have earned claims to respect. Once a gentleman of Bermuda, known to several members, succeeded in registering a "No" in a division. For this offence he was brought to the Bar, but was eventually dismissed with a caution.

Evening Party.

Hostesses are booking their dates well ahead for the coming season. Mrs. Pretymann-Newman has fixed on May 6 for an evening party. She has a nice house in Eaton-square, where one is certain to find a good many foreign diplomats and their ladies, and possibly music.

Mrs. Pretymann-Newman.

At Stapleford.

Lady St. Andries, who is the latest victim of the jewel thieves, was Miss de Molevris, and she was staying with her sister, Mrs. Gretton, at the time of the burglary. Mr. and Mrs. Gretton spend as much time as possible at Stapleford, which is a charming old-fashioned house—but brought well up to date in way of comfort. It is a favourite rendezvous of the Cottesmore Hounds.

The Hon. Antonia Benson, for whom her mother, Lady Charnwood, will give a dance in London next month.

Lady Churchill, who is helping to arrange a charity matinee at the Gaiety Theatre on Friday, April 27.

"The Light That Failed."

I hear that Rex Ingram, the producer of "The Four Horsemen" film, will be in England shortly. It is quite on the cards that while here he will produce a film of "The Light That Failed," in which he will enjoy the collaboration of Mr. Rudyard Kipling.

Her Book.

Mme. Aurel, whose name figures in the list of candidates for a vacant seat in the French Academy of Letters, is the author of a book entitled "How to Get Rid of Your Lover." It remains to be seen in what way that fact will influence the judgment of the men who have to settle the question of her eligibility.

Price of a Lemon.

A friend staying on the Riviera, charged three francs for a lemon sent to his room, was disgusted to find scores growing outside his bedroom window, which he could have had for nothing. Another "ramp" complained of is that in some hotels at Nice double prices are charged to people who lunch after 2.15 p.m. or dine after 8.15 p.m.

Mutual Discoveries.

Mr. Joseph Simpson, the artist, has a distinct gift for ready repartee. Meeting him in the Strand the other day, an artist friend remarked, "I see you are billed to write an article for one of the Sunday papers. I didn't know you could write." "Well, if it comes to that," replied Simpson, "I didn't know you could read!"

Headaches

Are Usually Due to Constipation.

When you are constipated there is an insufficient quantity of lubricant produced by your system to keep the food waste soft. Doctors prescribe Nujol because its action so closely resembles that of this natural lubricant.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.
Your chemist has it. Try it to-day.

LUDLOW'S

M 4, The Looms, Bradford

THE WAY OF A MAN

By S. ANDREW WOOD

"It's me," Peggy said, very coolly. "We seem fated to meet, don't we?" Secker, with his pulses drumming uncontrollably, saw the little dimples break in her cheek.

NEW READERS BEGIN HERE.

PEGGY BECKETT is an "alone-in-London" girl, engaged to marry Archie Dugdale, who lives in the same boarding establishment as herself in North Kensington. A shabby stranger acts as rescuer when Peggy and Archie are attacked by a dog in Hyde Park one day, and Archie does not shine too well in the affray. Peggy gives the stranger a ten-shilling note and hurries off to Quilter's Emporium, where she is employed.

That day Peggy is the ringleader in a lightning strike, which falls, Adam Quilter, when discharging her, indicates that he once knew her mother, whom Peggy much resembles, but that does not induce him to relent. The same day Peggy learns that Archie Dugdale is a worthless man who preys on credulous girls, and she dismisses him and leaves her old environment, determining to make a fresh start.

After numerous vicissitudes she again runs across the shabby stranger, Jack Sandiford by name, and they rapidly fall in love with each other. A second disillusion is in store for Peggy. She discovers that Jack's real name is Secker, that he is a rich man, heir to a title, and that he has assumed the guise of poverty in search for new sensation. He is also a dramatist, and humiliates Peggy by including some of their happy experiences in a successful play. Peggy meanwhile has got to know Nan Beverley, an old friend of Jack's, who is a divorced woman, and Peggy, believing she is more sinners against than sinning, befriends her.

Peggy saves Adam Quilter from a fire in a restaurant, in which it is believed he lost his life, and she tells her that, for mysterious reasons of his own, he has decided to disappear for three months. He next takes the astonishing step of making Peggy his sole heiress.

THE CURSE OF THE ARTIST.

AN electric canoe slid gently and silently down the dimpled current of the Thames one day in early July. It held a man and a girl.

The man sprawled his long, funnel-clad length indolently upon a pile of cushions so that his bronze head and tanned face were barely visible. The girl held the tiller in her freckled hand, and looked down with mingled amusement and annoyance at the man.

She was dark and graceful, with something of the grace of a thoroughbred animal, as she sat with her eyes half-closed in the glare of sun and water.

"You're not at all like other authors and artists and things like that, Jack," she said, with a half-petulant sigh. "You won't talk about your plays. You lie there as mumm as a mussel. I don't want you to talk about ethical values and psycho-analysis and stuff like that. I only want to know if there was ever really and truly an Angelina All Alone, where you met her, and where she is now. Did she really commit suicide, poor little thing?"

Jack Secker grinned at the stalk of a cuckoo-flower which he held between his teeth. "It's a trade secret," he replied lightly. "Authors never divulge that sort of thing. Keep the tiller steady, Moreen."

He lowered his head again to the cushion. His firm jaw became a little harder and some of the lazy wrinkles of laughter left his eyes. It was barely a month since Angelina All Alone had been produced, yet he already winced at the mention of it.

Even yet, he did not know how he had come to write it. With the obliteration of Jack Sandiford and the return of Jack Secker to his own world, life had seemed an empty shell for a day or two. The intolerable aching which he had felt for Peggy Beckett, frightened him.

So one night he had begun to work, and all that month he had poured work blindly, putting into his own soul, though he did not know it, into his new play.

Only on the night of its first production did he awake to the knowledge that he had dragged his own inner sanctuaries into the limelight and set for public entertainment what he had meant to hold sacred. The curse of the artist had fallen upon him.

Next morning a telegram had been handed to him. His father had died of a seizure in the old feudal hall deep in Devonshire, and his son was now Sir John Secker. To the last he had been a feeble old tyrant, for in his will he had already provided a wife for his heir.

It was a strange document of pleading and command. It besought and ordered his son to marry the daughter of one of the neighbouring landed families. Secker had smiled with an odd mixture of pity and rage at the will. He had known Moreen Silver from his boyhood. So when, upon accepting a week-end invitation to Willows Court, the riverside house of old Lady Snodgrove, he found the girl there, he knew that the plot was afoot. Already he felt almost reconciled.

"Yes, Sir John," she said, with her mocking eyes holding his. "A fairy-tale has happened to me as well as a play. Do you remember the death of old Adam Quilter in a fire at the Hotel Buonaparte, about three weeks since? Well, you may not believe it, but he left me his sole heiress, Quilter's Emporium, a house in London and another in the country, and nineteen thousand pounds a year! It's a joke, isn't it?"

"Gracious!" Moreen Silver sat up with a little gasp. "Why, of course! You're the little girl whom Lady Snodgrove was talking about this morning. You're coming to the carnival at Willows Court to-morrow, aren't you?" Peggy jumped to her bare feet. She gave another gurgle of naive laughter. "Yes, Sir John," she said, joyously. "I want a chance to get into good society as quick as I can. What is the use of having the spandulicks if you don't make a splash with them? Lady Snodgrove is an old dear. She came trotting round to see me yesterday, just as though I wasn't a—no, and me a little Cockney Cinderella. She said she wanted to take me up, whatever that is. Will you draw inshore, please, Sir John! This is where I live."

She waved her hand to a space of smooth river lawns and giant chestnuts, among which a large timbered house nestled. A couple of Alsatian wolfhounds came barking ecstatically at her as she stepped ashore and ran like a faun towards the house.

The electric canoe slid down into the river again.

"How delicious!" murmured Moreen, her eyes shut close as they rested upon Secker.

"She is the image of your Auntie, Jack! No wonder Lady Snodgrove, with her taste for weird people, is keen to take her up."

Jack Secker was silent. He was still white as the canoe reached the landing place of Willow Court.

He stood in the well of the boat and watched Moreen Silver move with her cold and languorous grace through the roses and pergolas towards the distant loggia, where a group of Lady Snodgrove's guests were gathered.

Then he started the canoe again, with a sudden low, savage exclamation to himself, and it swept back down the river.

Secker paced the long, low room with restless steps as he waited. Outside the leaves were already trembling in the yellow evening sunshine. A trim maid-servant had admitted him, and one of the Alsatian hounds lay on the hearth rug growing suspiciously at his heels, and then, Secker swung at the sound of a footstep in the doorway.

"Peggy!" he said with a Hunger that had been friendly and only faintly mocking. "It's Sir John Secker! I didn't catch the name when the servant told me."

She tilted her face close to him. Her eyes were friendly and only faintly mocking. Something deep within them baffled him.

"I came to—to apologise," he said lamely. Peggy rippled a little laugh.

"You didn't sink me," she replied. "I've even rescued my poor little canoe."

"Not for that," Secker's voice came harshly. "but for—that cursed play. I never meant it to be for you, little girl. I never thought of you seeing it. It came into my head. I'd written it before I knew. I didn't recognise you in it myself till it was too late. I've come to ask your forgiveness. For the play and for pretending, and for that letter which I wrote to you. It was the only thing I could do—to disappear. I was frightened of meeting you again."

He stumbled and stopped. Over him the pitiless realisation came that for what he had done there could be no excuse.

"That letter was written by Jack Sandiford," Peggy said, in a hard little voice that was utterly different for a moment. "Jack Sandiford is dead. So is that Cinderella girl. We won't talk about them, if you please."

Secker stood with his head bowed. The hard little voice went on:

"There's only left Sir John Secker and a little Cockney working girl called Peggy Beckett, who has suddenly become rich, as sometimes happens even in this commonplace world. I told that girl friend of yours deliberately who I was. I wanted her to tell everybody else. That old woman—Lady Snodgrove—only wants me to be friendly with her because I am a curiosity."

"When they all know that I am Angelina, your kind of people will fight each other to know me. But it will only amuse me. I am going to give you material for a new play. You can call it 'Angelina in Society.'"

Another fine instalment to-morrow.

THE BUSY PRINCE.

So Many Calls for Help That His Time Is Rationed.

SEASON'S LIST FULL.

That the Prince of Wales sectionises his time in the most systematic manner is a little secret that his Royal Highness has just disclosed in a communication to the Acton Hospital Council.

The Prince was asked to open the Acton War Memorial Hospital in July, but he has had to refuse because the demands upon his time for hospital and similar functions are so numerous that he has been obliged to divide them into categories and can accede to only a certain number in each section. His engagement list is already full for the present season.

The Prince, who is still suffering from a slight attack of laryngitis, has no hunting engagements this week.

ROYAL BRIDAL PLANS

Furnishing of White Lodge Almost Completed.

TROUSSEAU GIFTS.

The Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon left London on Saturday for a last week-end at St. Paul's Waldenbury, Woburn, Lady Elizabeth's Hertfordshire home.

The alterations and decorations to White Lodge are almost completed. Much of the essential furniture of the house has been given to the Duke of York by Earl Farquhar, but Lady Elizabeth's own suite of rooms will be largely furnished by wedding gifts.

Lady Elizabeth's trousseau includes over 100 pairs of stockings. Many are of hand-knitted wool in heather mixtures. Several dozen pairs of hand-knitted stockings in dead leaf green, dun and tan are included.

SCOTLAND AND ENGLAND ALL SQUARE AT HAMPTON

Drawn Game Gives Scots the Championship.

LEAGUE UPSETS.

West Ham Still in Running for Great Double.

Drawing with England at Hampden Park, after the visitors had twice been in front, Scotland won the international championship on Saturday. Wales finished at the bottom of the list as the result of a defeat by Ireland. The Rugby 'national series was also concluded when France defeated Ireland by 14 points to 8 in Paris. Other fixtures of the day's sport were—

Racing.—The King was again present at Newbury, where Royal Ascot commenced in easy victory in the Spring Cup from Abbey Island and Blackland.

League Football.—West Ham, the Cup finalists, and Notts County improved their chances of promotion at the expense of Leicester City, who were beaten at home by Manchester United.

Rugby.—France beat Ireland in the last international of the season, and Somerset beat Leicestershire in the final of the Rugby county championship by 8 points to 6.

BRILLIANT FORWARDS.

How Attack Beat Defence at Hampden Park.

New Hampden saw a comparatively small crowd for the international between England and Scotland—the game of the year so far as Scotland is concerned—and the majority of those present voted the result, a draw of two goals each, a fitting reflex of the play.

It was much brighter football than usually associated with international matches. The game was made interesting from the fact that the half backs on both sides failed to hold the forwards opposed to them, with the result that, generally speaking, the attackers dominated the game, although they ran up against sturdy defenders when the last line of resistance was reached.

In this respect it was regrettable from an English viewpoint that about the one real tendency of the match, made by Wadsworth, should have given Andy Wilson a "sitting" goal and an equaliser for Scotland. Up to that point in the second half England were slightly the better side, and just about deserved their one goal lead at the interval.

A feature of the match was the dashing work of the wingers, Lawson and Morion, for the Scots, and Tunstall particularly on England. They were the men by their clever runs kept the game open and made it so bright, exciting and interesting.

Lawson, the St. Mirren man, at outside right, was perhaps the outstanding figure. Time and again, particularly in the second half, when nerves were telling on some of the more experienced players, he got away with the ball and worked in towards the centre. He kept wonderful control over the ball, and his passes and shots were always threatening danger to England.

Alan Morton, the other Scottish winger, was also in fine form, but has the one real tendency to hold the ball too long. Cunningham, who was the "big noise" when the teams met last at New Hampden in 1921, started as if he were going to win the match for Scotland off his own boot, but died away.

TUNSTALL'S GREAT WORK.

Wilson, beyond getting his one goal, did not do a lot and Cairns was a trifle slow at times. Still, they were five good forwards.

Had England's three inside forwards played as well as Tunstall and Chedgoy on the wings, there would have been a different story to write. Kelly did not give Chedgoy a lot of assistance, and Chambers on the other wing, after playing well to Tunstall in the first half, was not much in the picture after the interval.

Neither man, nor, for the matter of that, Wilson at centre-half, seemed to think Watson was in the game at all, with the consequence that the Hammers' centre-forward did not have a great afternoon.

Tunstall's dashes and centres kept the Scots busy all the time. Both England's goals came from his efforts, Kelly heading the first and Watson the second.

Scotland's first goal came from a good centre by Lawson, which got the England defence in a tangle. Taylor saved well from Wilson, and then Cunningham drove in a hot one which gave him no chance.

Wilson's equalising goal came in the second half. The ball went rather awkwardly to Wadsworth, who missed his kick and failed to recover himself. Wilson, with his usual opportunism, seized on the ball and went on to score at his leisure.

Rarely does one see so many corner kicks in a match. Before the game was ten minutes old Scotland, who started with tremendous dash, had taken five, and in the next ten minutes at least half a dozen had fallen to England.

There have been many more brilliant international games, but few more thoroughly interesting than that of 1923.

Ruffell, the West Ham forward, injured while playing against Fulham.

IRELAND'S TRIUMPH.

Wales Beaten at Wrexham by a Better Balanced Team.

Ireland won a keenly contested game at Wrexham by three clear goals in the Soccer International Tournament. They thoroughly deserved their victory, showing far more cleverness than their opponents during the early stages of the game, and before Wales settled down the visitors held a two goals lead.

After a quiet start the Irishmen took a strong grip on the play, with the result that within fifteen minutes of the start they were a goal ahead, Irvine making no mistake with a very powerful shot. Within a minute Ireland had scored another goal. Godding quite failed to gather the ball when Toner centred, and Gillespie cleverly headed through. Shortly before the interval a weak clearance by Parry gave Irvine a splendid opportunity, and he brilliantly scored the third goal.

The Welshmen made desperate efforts to improve their position in the second half. The Arsenal backs—Mackie and Kennedy—were great stumbling blocks, however, and the whole Irish defence played in very determined fashion.

FRANCE ON TOP.

Ireland Beaten in Last Rugby International of the Season.

France beat Ireland by 14 points to 8 in the final international Rugby match of the season. Boquet got over first for France with an unconverted try, but Douglas responded for Ireland, and Crawford converted with a beautiful placed kick. Just on half-time Jarreguy put France ahead with another unconverted try.

Spirited work by Ireland after the change of ends resulted in McClelland scoring a try that Crawford could not convert from a difficult angle. Shortly before the interval Jarreguy made a brilliant conversion from a scramble for Boquet to convert.

HONOURS IN THE WEST.

Somerset Succeed Gloucester as County Rugby Champions.

In a finely-contested game at Bridgwater Somerset won the Rugby county championship final, defeating Leicestershire by a goal and a try to two tries.

The feature of the game was the magnificent play of Gaisford, the St. Bartholomew's Hospital full back. With his fine kicks Gaisford frequently extracted his side from danger, particularly during the closing stages, when Leicestershire went all out in an endeavour to secure victory.

Following smart work by the Somerset backs, Jarvis crossed the Leicestershire line with the first try, which Gaisford converted.

Setting down to the game better, the Leicester backs carried out some beautiful passing. Smallwood got over with an unconverted try. Somerset responded splendidly, and Maine got through, but the place-kick was unsuccessful. In a splendidly-contested second half Burton obtained Leicestershire's second unconverted try.

AQUARIUS WIN A.F.A. CUP.

Aquarius, the Metropolitan Water Board team, beat Eastbourne (holders) in the A.F.A. Cup final at Lords-road on Saturday. Excellent football was witnessed in a hard game. Langdon opened the score for Aquarius, but Lynn equalised. Norman responded splendidly, and Maine got through, but Langdon increased the lead after the change over. Ball shot a second for Eastbourne.

PROMOTION RIVALRY.

West Ham Secure a Great Victory Over Fulham.

The race for promotion to the First Division is still very keen between Notts County, West Ham, Leicester City, Manchester United, and Blackpool. However, West Ham are in a much better position than any of their rivals, as they have played two games fewer and have a much better goal average than any of them.

Notts County were fully extended to beat Leeds, who, through a combination of circumstances, were frequently dangerous, but a goal by Dinsdale after sixteen minutes' play gave the County the victory, and with it the leadership of the division, as Leicester had to play second fiddle to Manchester United.

The goal which determined the issue at Leicester was scored by Bain early in the first half. West Ham's achievement in defeating Fulham by two clear goals at Craven Cottage was one of the best performances of the day.

HAMMERS' HANDICAP.

The first half was fought at a fast pace, and there was no lack of clever football. After the change of ends Bishop hit the bar, and from the rebound Moore passed again to him, and his second attempt, a glorious cross-drive, gave Raynolds, who had previously saved a penalty, no chance. Moore got the second goal toward the finish.

Unfortunately, the Hammers had Ruffell injured, and he will be out of the game for a time. His ability to play in the final is doubtful.

Intense football was seen at Selhurst, where Shields shared the points. Osberty gave South Shields the lead in the first half, and Blakemore headed an equaliser after the cross-over.

Blackpool advanced Bury by 2-0, but Barnsley made a serious slip at home, where Port Vale beat them by the only goal scored.

IN THE SHADOWS.

Orient Still Languishing at Relegation End of the Table.

By their defeat at Southampton Clapton Orient seem almost certain to descend into the Third Division, especially as Stockport County and Rotherham gained splendid victories away from home.

Unless something remarkable happens in their three remaining games, Clapton Orient will take the place of Bristol City, Bournemouth and Rawlings scored against them for the Saints.

The Wednesday beat Coventry City more emphatically than the score of 2-0 suggests, though the eventual winners lost many chances during a blank first half. Sykes, Binks and Petrie found the net after a change of goals.

At Valley Parade, against Bradford City, Rotherham secured an early lead through Lambert and held on to their advantage for the rest of the game.

Now that it is too late, Wolverhampton Wanderers have begun to pick up points with some frequency. Through an injury to Green, Stockport had to rearrange their forces during the match at Derby, and the change served them well, for the improved attack put on two goals through Knowles and Humphrey before Moore reduced the lead.

LAWN TENNIS.

J. D. P. Wheatley Wins Covered Courts Title—New Woman Champion.

J. D. P. Wheatley, the old Bedford boy, on Saturday at Queen's Club, won the Covered Courts Singles Championship by beating Dr. A. H. Fryze, the All-India international, in the final by 3 sets to 1. Mrs. Claydon added her name to the list of women singles champions by a victory over Mrs. Edgington by 6-3, 6-2.

After leading by two sets to one in the men's doubles final, Wheatley and Hamilton Price succumbed to S. N. Donist and "Dixie", who won by 2-1, 6-3.

Partnered by Miss Colyer, Wheatley won the first set in the mixed doubles final, but in the end they were beaten by "Dixie" and Mrs. Edgington by 2-6, 6-3.

I. C. Norton Defeated.—In an exhibition lawn tennis match at Olympia R. Lycett and G. R. Sherwell defeated B. I. C. Norton, the European covered courts champion, and B. Gilbert, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

Walking at Coudoun.—F. C. Horneby-Smith (Banks) won the ten miles walking race among representatives of the London Stock Exchange, Banks and Insurance Offices, his time being 1 hr. 30m. 22s. The Banks were first in team placings.

LIVERPOOL'S ADVANCE

Valuable Point Gained in Race for Championship.

SUNDERLAND'S PURSUIT.

Three points ahead of their nearest competitors, Sunderland, and faced with a much easier programme than that which awaits the Wear-side's attention, Liverpool appear to have made almost certain of the championship.

On Saturday they took part in a goalless game at Huddersfield.

At Roker the meeting between Sunderland and Burnley resolved itself during the second half into a magnificent duel between Moorwood, the Burnley goalkeeper, and the Sunderland forwards. Twice in the first half he had been beaten by Ellis and Patterson, but after the change of ends only Buchanan succeeded in outwitting him. Lindsey scored Burnley's only goal.

Against Bolton Wanderers West Ham's opponents in the Cup final, Chelsea had the worst of the play, but shared the points, each team scoring once. John Smith crowned a superb bit of solo work with a good goal and Whittin equalised after the change of ends. Chelsea are not out of the danger area yet.

By losing at the Hawthorns to West Bromwich Albion, for whom Carter scored the only goal, Oldham certainly seem booked for the descent to the Second Division, but who will accompany them? It is by no means certain that it will be Sloke. Since Jack Rutherford took over management of the Potters they have picked up a few points and a win over Newcastle gives ground for hope. It was only a goal, scored through Watkins, by which they won, but it sufficed.

NOTTINGHAM'S DANGER.

Nottingham Forest drew with Manchester City, and they are now three points ahead of Stoke and one above Chelsea.

Birmingham made themselves fairly safe by securing their first League victory, over the Spurs in the Midlands. Rawson, who had previously missed a good chance, gave his side the lead at the interval, and, though Lindsey equalised, McClure regained the lead for Birmingham.

It was quite a feather in Arsenal's cap to draw with Preston North End, in view of their earlier success for the Wales v. Ireland international. Roberts headed the first goal for the Lancashire club from a centre by Quantrell, but Boreham equalised. The Arsenal played really good football.

Cardiff, too, made heavy sacrifices for national calls. They were without six of their cleverest men, yet they beat a formidable side as Sheffield United by a goal (scored by Clennell) to nil. It was a hard match all through, and the Welsh substitutes were complimented on the way they rose to the occasion.

BRISTOL CITY GOING UP.

Swansea Lcse at Plymouth and Fall Behind in the Race.

Although they only took a point from Watford, it seems certain that Bristol City must go up, as, with only three more games to play, they are four points in advance of Swansea with Plymouth Argyle next in the running.

It was by a penalty that Bristol City equalised at Watford. Strain had scored for the home club in the first half, and deserved their lead, but after Walker had scored for the visitors the prospective champions had more of the game.

Swansea suffered defeat at Plymouth by two clear goals in an exhilarating game. Fowler scored both goals for the winners.

A goal by Parker gave Brentford a narrow victory over Portsmouth in the early evening. The home side, by six clear goals. Miller (three), Whalley, Steele and Castle were the scorers.

In the West at the expense of Exeter by the odd goal of three, Parker scored twice for the Rangers after Davis had given the home club an early lead.

Norwich secured the only victory over a London side by beating Millwall 3-2 after a fast and even contest. Twice in the first half Lions took the lead through Moule and Lane, but each time Denison equalised, and soon after the cross over the last-minute completed his hat-trick.

Goals by Lockett and Pense gave Northampton a bloodless victory over Luton, while Reading just about despatched their goal win over Swindon. Jennings scored the important point.
